ANNOUNCEMENT!

OUR new building on Washington Avenue was to have been completed by August 1st. Relying upon this promise, and expecting to have much more room at this date, we bought complete stocks in every department for August 1st delivery. These goods are now arriving by ocean steamships and fast freight trains in carload lots, crowding every inch from basement to roof—but, instead of having MORE room, as we anticipated, WE HAVE LESS, because the removal of adjoining walls is forcing us to condense the stocks to make room for the builders. We are therefore compelled to sell at once thousands of dollars' worth of new merchandise at a sacrifice! We lose, but you gain! Read the offerings in this ad—Clean, new fall goods at much less than regular prices.

JOY FOR MEN OF STREET RAILWAYS

Monster Outing of Two Days at Creve Coeur Lake Is Arranged.

FREE STREET-CAR RIDES

Twenty-Five Thousand Round-
Trip Tickets Will Be Given Away to Picnickers.

Employees of the United Railways Co. and their families will virtually own all of the street railway lines in St. Louis during the last two days of August, and in addition Creve Coeur Lake and the line that leads to it from the city.

The street railway employees, numbering nearly 3000, are to have the biggest picnic given by St. Louisans in many years. They have arranged to take possession of the Creve Coeur Lake resort on Wednesday and Thursday, Aug. 3 and 4, and every railway employee and his family will visit the place on one of the days.

Capt. Robert McCallough, general manager of the United Railways Co. is in hearty sympathy with the outing for the men whose movements he directs and he has caused an order to be issued authorizing all conductors to carry free any person wearing a badge that is to be issued by the committee having the picnic in charge.

There will be 25,000 badges and they will be issued to all employees and their families. The badge will carry the person wearing it from any point in the city to Creve Coeur Lake and return.

The outing is not intended to raise a fund for any purpose. It is the intention of the committee to have the railway employees and their families have two days of actual enjoyment.

There will be amusements for every hour of the day and night. During the day there will be ball games, foot races, boat races, sack races, jumping contests and all kinds of athletic events. Liberal prizes will be awarded the winners of all contests.

At night there will be a display of fireworks and dancing. Refreshments will be in abundance and the committee has made arrangements for these to be supplied at a moderate price.

The following committees are in the picnic in charge:

G. E. Pool, conductor of the First Division, embracing the Market and Lacrosse lines; Robert Bullen, motorman, Second Division, Compton Heights, Park and Fourth street lines; R. D. Allen, motorman, Third Division, Easton, Van-

POST-DISPATCH NEWSBOYS, NO. 28.

ELMER DORN, 2105 FRANKLIN AVENUE.

For three years Elmer Dorn helped his brother, Chester, sell the Post-Dispatch at the corner of Twenty-first street and Franklin avenue. Two months ago his brother became a printer's apprentice and Elmer took charge of the corner on his own account.

Elmer attracts much attention when he starts out with his big bundle of the Post-Dispatch, almost as large as himself; for he is only 48 inches tall. He is 19 years old and is a pupil at the Youngest and Oldest Post-Dispatch School. Elmer believes in getting as many regular Post-Dispatch customers as possible and when he is not selling his papers he tries to get new customers to whom he may deliver the Post-Dispatch regularly.

His girls' papers at Fenwick's Post-Dispatch branch, 212 Franklin avenue, and, notwithstanding he is one of the youngest and likeliest Post-Dispatch boys at Fenwick's branch, he never loses a paper.

Elmer is a many little fellow and the public in his vicinity like to have him about their place. He has a favorite newspaper. New boys in this district who want to make money may sell the Daily Post-Dispatch.

TOOK 27 YEARS FINDING IT

Son Returns With Package of Tobacco Sent After When Small Boy.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 8.—Richard Lorraine, of this city, who was the 12-year-old son, Henry, because he refused to go to the store at the father's request for a package of smoking tobacco.

Smarting under the punishment, the lad went on the errand, but did not return and the parents were unable to obtain any clue to his whereabouts till last evening, the twenty-seventh anniversary of his disappearance, when he entered the house and handed his father a package of tobacco, saying:

"I couldn't find the brand you usually smoke."

Henry had just returned from Brisbane, Queensland, Australia, where he has been for the past ten years in business. He sold his interests there for $40,000 and returned home to care for his parents the rest of their days. They were in straitened circumstances, which fact he chanced to learn through a Los Angeles man he met in Brisbane.

BOY RESCUES FATHER FROM WOMEN'S WILES

Southern Illinois State Senator

Taken by Police in Raid After Boy Had Tried Several Times to Get Him.

SPENT $150 AND GAVE

HIS CHECK FOR $1500

In the police records of today labeled "not for the press" is the account of a boy rescuing his father from women's wiles. The father, a State Senator from Northern Illinois, left St. Louis this morning for home with the boy, who had been sent by the wife and mother as a guard against the dangers of conviviality on the part of the father.

In that part of the St. Louis police records for today classified as "not for the press" is the unusual story of the rescue of a State Senator from Southern Illinois by his 12-year-old son from women's wiles.

The father left St. Louis this morning for home, in the care of the boy, who had been sent by the wife and mother as a guard against the dangers of conviviality on the part of the father.

The Senator left his home over a week ago on a trip which took him to Vincennes, Ind., Springfield, Ill., and one or two other places.

When he and the boy arrived in St. Louis Thursday they went to a restaurant and hotel on Fifteenth street, conducted by an acquaintance of the Senator. The Senator left the boy there, stating that he would be back in a little while. The boy waited all day and his father did not return.

Among his father's papers the boy found the address, 2223 Lucas avenue. He determined to go there and the efforts of the hotel attaches to dissuade him were futile.

He found his father at that address, the house of Lottie Evans, and begged him to come away, but the Senator refused.

Finding that he could not get his father away the boy asked him for a certified check for $1500 on the bank of his home city which he boy knew he had with him, but the Senator would not give it to him.

Gave Woman $1300 Check.
The boy went sadly away and returned Friday. Again he tried to get his father to come away and again he failed. He asked him again for the check and his father told him that Lottie Evans had taken the check and demanded it of the woman. She admitted that she had it, but she was going to keep it because the Senator owed her.

Saturday, after making another effort to get his father away and to get the check, the boy went to Capt. Gaffney at the Dayton Street station and told him all the circumstances.

Capt. Gaffney went to the house and found that Lottie Evans had given the check to a business man who had called to collect a bill, and he had placed it in the Jefferson Bank for collection.

Capt. Gaffney had the house raided and Lottie Evans and seven other women were arrested.

Charges of violating ordinances prohibiting such houses were entered against them and they were kept at the station until they were released on bond to appear in the Dayton Street Police Court Monday morning. At that time their cases were continued to Aug. 19.

The Senator was taken from the house when it was raided and as he was sent by the police to the Good Samaritan Hospital, accompanied by the boy.

Money Recovered.
The business man who had received the check from Lottie Evans turned the $1500 over to Capt. Gaffney, who gave it to the Senator when he was sufficiently recovered to start home in the care of his son.

The Senator told Capt. Gaffney that he had $150 when he went to the house and he had spent all of it there. He had no complaint to make about having spent it, but he thought the account ought to be called square.

FIGHT OVER STOLEN PURSE.

Contention for Juvenile Burglars' Plunder Causes Arrest.

The arrest of two negroes fighting at Twenty-first and Olive streets has resulted in a fight over the theft of a purse containing several dollars in money from Richard Hurck's bicycle shop at 349 Olive street Saturday.

The two boys were fighting over the purse, which one of them, Ben Williams, says was given to him by "Tom," a leader of a band of juvenile burglars, to keep until he sent for it.

Later he sent another boy to claim it, but Wilson would not give it up and a fight followed. Wilson declares he took no part in the robbery.

ST. LOUISAN SUE BY ROCKEFELLER

Brother of Oil King Asks $265,000 He Says He Put in Mine.

Frank Rockefeller of Cleveland, O., a brother of John D. Rockefeller, has filed a suit in the Circuit Court against Henry Gross of 3563 West Belle place for $265,000.

He says he bought some mining claims near Joplin, Mo., from Mr. Gross for $200,000 with the understanding that the ground was underlain with valuable zinc and lead ore. He declares that he spent $65,000 on the property in excess of what he realized from it.

When Deputy Sheriff Kilcullen, accompanied by Attorney Henry Kort-John, went to the Gross residence to serve notice of the suit, a woman answered the bell.

When she opened the screen door he placed the notice in her hand. When she discovered what it was she ran after him begging him to take it back. He declined. She threw it after him. A boy picked it up and started back to ward the house with it. The woman had stated that Gross was not at home but that he might return later.

Cure For the Blues

ONE MEDICINE THAT HAS NEVER FAILED
Health Fully Restored and the Joy of Life Regained.

When a cheerful, brave, light-hearted man is suddenly plunged into that perfection of misery, the BLUES, it is a sad picture. It is usually this way: "She has been feeling 'out of sorts' for some time; he has ached and back aches; has sleep, poorly, been quite nervous and nearly fainted once or twice; head dizzy, and heart-beats very fast; then, that bearing-down feeling, and during her menstrual period she is exceedingly despondent. Nothing pleases her. Her doctor says: 'Cheer up; you have dyspepsia; you will be all right soon.'"

But she doesn't get "all right," and hope vanishes; then come the brooding, morbid, melancholy, everlasting BLUES.

Don't wait until your sufferings have driven you to despair, with your nerves all shattered and your courage gone, but take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. See what it did for Mrs. Rosa Adams, of 119 12th Street, Louisville, Ky., niece of the late General Roger Hanson, C.S.A. She writes:

"I cannot tell you with pen and ink what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me, suffered with female troubles, extreme lassitude, 'the blues,' nerve troubles and all those feelings. I was advised to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it not only cured my female derangement, but it has restored me to perfect health and strength. The inventory of my former days has returned, and I do not suffer any longer with despondency. I did before. I consider Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a boon to sick and suffering women."

If you have some derangement of the female organism, write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for advice.

CHOIR SOPRANO AND ST. LOUIS BANK CLERK SECRETLY MARRIED

MRS. ROBERT BRANK, WHO WAS MISS FLORENCE TANNER. Mutila Portrait.

Miss Florence Tanner and Robert Brank, Son of Once Famous St. Louis Preacher, Furnish Surprise by Wedding at Nashville.

An unusually romantic story in which the principals are a well-known St. Louis church choir soprano and the son of a once famous St. Louis preacher was revealed Tuesday by the announcement of the marriage at Nashville, Tenn., last Friday of Miss Florence Tanner of Mount Vernon, Ill., to Robert Brank of St. Louis.

It was known that the couple were engaged, but not that they contemplated marriage at so early a date. The bride herself followed the news of the happy returning to her home and receiving the blessing of her parents and the congratulations of her friends. The young couple had met by agreement at Monticello, Tenn., a favorite Southern summer resort, during their vacation, and gone together to Nashville, where they were married by the Rev. Dr. Jacobs, pastor of the Woodland Avenue Presbyterian Church of that city.

She Left the City to Sing.

Miss Tanner was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen B. Tanner of Mount Vernon, her father being a former member of the Illinois State Board of Equalization, and for some time has been the soprano of the First Presbyterian Church of St. Louis. When she left the city recently, on vacation and under an engagement to sing at the Monticello Chautauque, it was supposed that she was merely going away for a pleasant summer holiday.

About the same time, however, young Mr. Brank left St. Louis and went direct to Monticello. He is the son of the late Rev. Dr. R. G. Brank, for many years pastor of the Central Presbyterian Church of St. Louis, and for whom the Brank Memorial Presbyterian Church was named, and is employed at the Third National Bank of St. Louis.

When it became known that he, too, had gone to Monticello, the St. Louis friends of the young couple, knowing that they were engaged, began to suspect that a wedding might be in the wind. And then came the announcement of the marriage almost before this suspicion had been smilingly mentioned by one to another.

Mr. Brank, it is said, did not return with his bride to her parents' home, but is expected in St. Louis within a day or two to prepare a home for her in this city. He will then bring her here from Mount Vernon and she will probably resume her place in the choir of the First Presbyterian Church. The St. Louis friends of the young couple are arranging to give them a hearty reception.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—A firm manufacturing rural letter boxes, has, it is alleged, been selling in Virginia, West Virginia and Maryland, an inferior box with the assurance that it is one approved by the Postoffice Department. The box is of such faulty construction that a strong wind blows the mail out of it.
Fourth Assistant Postmaster Degraw has ordered Duld & Co. of Lynchburg, Va., manufacturers of the boxes, to at once replace the defective boxes and cease selling boxes of that pattern, with an intimation that unless the order is obeyed the department will not permit them to sell boxes of any kind.

BABY'S LEG SEVERED, LIFE AND FOOT SAVED BY MOTHER'S BRAVERY

For Five Hours Mrs. William Caspar Gripped Her Child's Wounded Limb Preventing the Flow of Blood Until a Physician Arrived.

Only a jagged red scar on the left leg of little Olvin Caspar, aged 2½ years, remains to show how narrow was his escape from death, or at least the loss of his foot, which hung by one tendon, both bones having been cut through and the foot almost severed from the leg.
Olvin's mother saved not only his life but his leg, for when he was cut down in the harvest field by the sickle bar of a mowing machine, it was she who stopped the flow of blood by holding the arteries shut with her hands. Then, when the surgeon arrived after five hours, it was she who prevented him from amputating the foot, which seemed the only chance to save the child's life.

William Caspar, Olvin's father, is a farmer. His 20-acre tract is on the "Telegraph" road, 15 miles from the southern limits of St. Louis. Caspar was reaping an oat field July 6, and his wife and little boy were in the field with him. The child strayed in front of the machine and before the father saw him the one leg and cutting through the bones of the other, leaving the foot hanging by the tendon of Achilles.

Mrs. Caspar took the baby from her husband, who had picked him up, and hurried to the house while the father held the child in his lap. For five hours her one hand tightly clasped around the severed leg and the other hand holding the foot as nearly in place as she could.

Held Only by Tendon.
After what seemed an age, Dr. H. M. Julian of 732 Virginia avenue arrived with his assistant, Dr. Schaefer. When they saw the terrible nature of the injury and found that only the tendon of Achilles at the back of the child's heel was uncut, they decided to slip through the tendon and remaining flesh as the only chance for the child's recovery.
Olvin's father, who never before realized how useless he was in a crisis, after he telephoned for the physician tried to quiet the child, whose every cry made the brave mother wince.
"Give him something to eat," was the paternal thought to stop the child's whimpers, and when Mrs. Julian and Schaefer arrived little Olvin was munching a piece of "Jelly bread."
Although the surgeons tried to convince Mr. and Mrs. Caspar that amputation was the only way to save the child, they could not stop the father.
"If my Olvin is going to die, let him be buried with both feet on," was the mother's decision, by which the surgeons had to abide.

Policeman Sued for Divorce.
Nellie A. Fechtman filed suit in Circuit Court Monday for divorce from Henry Fechtman, whom she alleged failed to furnish her with money for incidental expenses and at one time said that he wished she were dead. Asks for custody of child. Fechtman is a policeman.
Louis S. Behner in her suit for divorce from Adolph Behner, alleged that he bet on horse races and deserted her. John Thos alleges in his suit for divorce that his wife, Barbara, deserted him. Asks for custody of three children.
Every boy's tan shoe in the house up to $2.50 for $1.50, at Boehmer's, 410 B'wy.

Sunflowers Weeds in Missouri.
KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 8.—Doctor J. L. Powers arraigned in the Police Court on a charge of failure to cut weeds on his property at Pacific and Charlotte streets, was fined $1.50.
"I cut the weeds, Judge," he told the court, "but I left standing some sunflowers."
"Yes, but according to a ruling of the Missouri Supreme Court, sunflowers are weeds," said Judge Brady. "Sunflowers may be flowers in Kansas, but they are weeds in Missouri."

Excursionists Swim Ashore.
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 8.—The excursion steamer Sunnyside, which sank yesterday, lies in easy water and will be raised. Most of the 180 passengers thrown into White River near the shore yesterday escaped without injury. None were seriously hurt. The passengers rushed to the shore side when the accident occurred and wrenched the cabin from the hull.

Romance for Aged Man.
Although aged three score years and ten, Timothy Friend, engaged in the inflammable business of a kindling wood dealer, felt the flame of love in his bosom and Monday was married at Clayton by Justice Bailey of Wellston.

Mrs. Wilhelmina Kiefer, 53 years old, both parties lived at 909 South Second street. Recently Mrs. Kiefer was obliged to move to that number on account of high rents and this began her romance with snow-haired Mr. Friend, the wedding following a week's courtship. The groom is the oldest of whom Clayton has any record.

Overdose of Medicine Kills.
An inquest will be held Tuesday on the body of Timothy Bailey of 715 Alabama avenue, who died Sunday after taking medicine said to contain morphine and chloral hydrate. Bailey's mother says that he had been drinking heavily, that the medicine was prescribed by a physician, and that he took it without regarding the directions. Drs. Max C. Starkloff and Horace M. Julian, who were called in when Bailey was dying, believe that death was caused by an overdose of the medicine.

The program for the afternoon and evening is different from any heretofore attempted. There will be a hurling match, the St. Louis Gaels (Michael Whelan, captain) meeting their brother team from East St. Louis (Dennis Conney captain) in what promises to be the finest exhibition of Ireland's national pastime ever witnessed in the West.
There will be a tug-of-war between picked teams and a contest between fire and drum bands and in the evening a baseball game will be played on a diamond, illuminated by numerous electric lights. Two members of the American League will pitch with either side.

THE CHORUS GIRL

By IVAN WHIN.

Complete in Seven Chapters.

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING CHAPTER.
Patricia Burke is the daughter of a publican in the Ramping Co's mill in North St. Louis. Her sister Anna is a sourette in melodrama on the road. Patricia inherits from Anna an ambition for stage success and left to wash the breakfast dishes one Monday morning while her mother washes clothes in the basement runs away to Delmar, where she obtains a place in the chorus.

CHAPTER II.

The Naked Truth.

WHEN I had written the caption for this chapter I paused a long while and thought, smoking and gazing idly out of my den window. Did any one ever see, hear, feel or otherwise realize the naked truth? That question was flung at me by some interior consciousness while my pencil was tracing the letters of the caption. Carpenter, painter, wardrobe woman, property man and stage manager combine with librettist, composer and actor to befool and bedazzle the audience. The stage is dressed with their devices; it is a fairy land of pleasure dreams decreed by the magic and unsubstantial as are dreams. This we know, and yet so strong is the mental impress were you to look on the stripped stage, wrecked of its carpentry and its painted palaces, the imagination restores the scene or at least some odor of it, some color for the eye or ear. If then some woman in street attire should dance recklessly down the boards screeching negligently a popular air you would not ask if she were insane or drunken as you might should she act thus freakishly on the veranda of the cottage. The mere fact that she contorts and screeches on the stage glamors the act. Then, too, if you are of the stage, insured to it by long association, filled to the brim with the traditions which are to many stage folk all there is of the mimetic art, such an appearance of such a person will be approved or disapproved according to dance and song traditions.

In either case truth is draped with the gossamer of a fixed idea.

Patricia first saw the bare Delmar stage entering from the back. There was not a bit of scenery in position; the curtain was up and only the center of the stage space was unlit. Her vivid imagination peopled the empty auditorium and she walked down to the footlights with an air.

In the wings were people and she heard voices about her but no one opposed her entrance.

When near the footlights she observed a man sitting solitary in the first row of seats. He was coatless and hatless. His hair was sparse and iron gray; his heavy mustache was white. He was short and sturdily built.

She wondered why he was sitting there, for he did not seem to be a part of the place. She estimated him curiously and concluded that he was probably a contractor engaged on some improvements in the garden's buildings.

"What do you want?" he asked suddenly.

His voice was harsh, keyed to the note of command.

"I want to see the stage manager."

"Well?"

"Are you—"

"Of course. What is it?"

"I want to get into the chorus." She scarcely believed that this so wholly untheatrical man had the power to employ a chorus girl, but ventured the statement of her wishes.

"What experience?" he asked.

"I—I've never been on the stage. That is—on a stage like this. I've sung and danced and recited."

His face was expressionless, but he rose quickly and, stepping into the orchestra space, touched a key of the open piano repeatedly.

"Sing the scale," he said.

She sang it lightly.

He gave her another key.

"Sing a scale."

Her voice ran it birdlike.

"Louder!" he said harshly.

She let her voice pour out.

"Staccato! Louder!" he said.

She obeyed, and while she sang another coatless man appeared at the piano, staring at her intently.

The new man was 40, blond, Germanic, thick of neck and widening at the waist. He played a little air, simple, charming. "Sing that," he commanded.

She tossed it back at him prettily.

"Quick ear," he muttered to the stage manager.

"Give her the new book," commanded that worthy and to her: "Read music!"

"O, yes."

"Sing the aria," commanded the second man, giving her a music score.

She hummed through the notes and then sang at it, lamely enough as she felt, but without making more mistakes than the man at the piano seemed to expect.

"All right," he muttered to the stage manager.

The latter called a woman from the back of the stage.

"Here, Mrs. Murphy, put this girl in 'lights," and waved a hand of dismissal.

A faded little woman, bright of eye, alert in movement, took Patricia's arm. "Come, my dear," she said in a gentle voice.

Patricia followed Mrs. Murphy down a narrow flight of steps to the compartment under the stage.

"You ever put them on before?" asked Mrs. Murphy.

"What?"

"Tights."

"Do I have to?"

"Oh, yes. Don't you understand?"

Yes, Patricia did understand. She had often anticipated this crisis, but had never come to any decision regarding it. In the privacy of her own room she had considered the fact before the mirror.

She took the costume offered her and entered a narrow cell. Very slowly she disrobed.

About her was a regular tramp of feet and girlish voices singing scales. Several hoydenish girls clattered down the stage. They laughed loudly and when one accidentally struck her hand on the stage rail she swore noisily.

The other girl looked into Patricia's cell. "Hello," she said gently. "You're dressing early."

"It's a new girl—to show," said Mrs. Murphy. "Give her a little help, Evelyn."

"Certainly," said the girl. She was dark and because of a droop to the corners of her mouth and the darkness of her brows she seemed sulky. But her eyes were alive with fun and when she danced or sang the audience found her fascinating.

She showed Patricia how to hold the tights in donning them to minimize work and escape wrinkles. She pushed her about, patted her, laced her, fixed strings, buttons and pins and then stood her off for inspection.

Patricia felt like a doll in her hands, or a little girl being dressed by her big sister for some outlandish play in a garret.

"Fine," cried Evelyn. "Come on up. You'll do."

The bodice of the costume had a 10-inch skirt, but a long, wide piece of white cloth was looped from shoulder to waist and trailed to the back of her knees.

Patricia held this scant drapery about her limbs and ascended to the stage.

At the stair top she paused, the drawing in her forehead, she took courage and walked down to the footlights.

"Here, Mr. Smith, called Evelyn.

The stage manager turned from a group of men to whom he had been talking vehemently.

"What is it?"

"New girl."

"Yes? Oh, I remember. The girl who can sing. Well, my dear, you're all right. Just keep that costume on and get into the rehearsal. I'll give you a trial."

"Come on," said Evelyn, and pulling at Patricia's hand, led the way back to the dressing room. "Say, I'll steer you. What's your name?"

"Patricia Burke."

"Say, the Patricia's all right, but the Burke—you'll have to shake it."

"I thought"—Patricia glanced at her shily—"I'd take my mother's name, Flournoy."

"Great! Patricia Flournoy. Say, that is fine. I can see that on the bills. Wait till you're a star and see it in letters a foot high."

Patricia giggled ecstatically.

"All!" roared the stage manager, "are we ever going to begin. Hustle the people."

Evelyn sprang down the steps to the depths below, leaving Patricia lonely, very conscious of her abbreviated skirt and shrinking from the eyes of the callous chorus men and carpenters.

"Nice shape," said one, looking her over professionally.

"Good looking all over," said another. Her face went white and she ran tremblingly after the kindly girl.

BABIES' SALVATION FUND NEEDS GREAT ADDITIONS

Help the Post-Dispatch to Supply Ice to the Poor and Pure Milk to the Babies Who Are Being Poisoned Out of Life.

"Ice is as necessary for the poor in summer as coal is for them in winter," says Adolph Robt, manager of the United Jewish Charities building, Ninth and Carr streets.

"At first glance this statement may not seem reasonable but I know whereof I speak."

Mr. Robt has cause to know his subject. He passes his life in a neighborhood where there are many poor, and he knows their sufferings at all seasons of the year.

He knows that the power of the cold can be defeated with clothing as well as fire. One cannot combat against heat easily. The very cause for action makes matters worse. Fire can be made of various kinds of material. Old newspapers rolled tightly will give out considerable warmth.

No such makeshifts will do when it is heat that torments. Ice has no substitute in the city. A pall of well water in the country answers for ice water but the water that flows from city hydrants might come out of a half warmed tea kettle as far as coolness is concerned.

Garments are often given to the poor in the winter time. They serve in lieu of some coal. Ice cannot be given easily. The fact that it melts quickly has placed in a protected place puts it in the luxury class.

Without ice the work of supplying babies of the poor with pure milk, which will save their lives, will count for naught. Milk for the babies cannot be kept through hot days without ice. Some mothers who manage to pay for milk because it is cooked on an absolute necessity can spare little money for ice. In such cases the milk sours and the babies become ill.

Two thousand bottles of milk that has been purified by the pasteurizing process are being supplied to mothers daily. Fifteen per cent of that is given without any cost whatever. The remainder is supplied at a loss of $60 per month. That is the price charged for the milk is so small that the receipts do not meet the expenses by $600.

Few persons in town, except those who live in the milk districts, can purchase pure milk. The pasteurized milk, The Post-Dispatch Free Ice and Pure Milk Fund is being raised to supply all who are in need.

For the continuance of the work which has been begun funds are necessary. The monthly extra expense of $700 must be supplied or the Milk Commission will have to close the doors of its laboratory. That was necessary last year, but the officers hope that they will not have to repeat the performance. If they receive adequate support they mean to continue through the winter as well as the summer months. Every nickel that is given, while only the price of a sundae or a street car ride or a bad cigar to you, means a few bottles of milk or a

With the present apparatus possessed by the Pure Milk Commission, it is possible to supply 500 bottles as easily as 100. More than that would necessitate the incurring of much expense.

Last year the customers were but 300. The patronage has been increased this year by a house-to-house canvass and visits in the neighborhood of the milk stations.

The proprietors of the stores where the stations are situated deserve much credit. They not only distribute the milk free of charge and receive the "milk" bottles, but they keep a daily report for the commission.

As a storage bill of $84 is paid; Stockman of New York says such a storage charge is excessive, and that anyone who reached an amicable agreement to give Mrs. Stockman a sealskin coat in payment of all charges.

Mrs. Stockman, however, denies this, she says the sealskin coat was to pay a board bill contracted by Stockman of New York, and that it had nothing to do with the fur-lined coats and the bill for their storage.

Stockman of New York has shipped the six coats, valued at $200. In his own name in care of Philip Winters of 106 South Sixth street.

Winters did not know Stockman of New York was coming for the coats, and he notified Stockman of St. Louis who took them to his tailor shop at 391 Finney avenue.

A few days ago Stockman of New York arrived and began to look for the coats. Winters told him what had been done, and Stockman of New York hurried to his cousin's tailor shop.

Storage Is Demanded.
But Stockman of St. Louis demanded storage. Stockman of New York put two of the coats on his arm and started out of the tailor shop with them.

Stockman of St. Louis was after him instantly and Stockman of New York took a pair of shears to the attack. Stockman of New York caught the shears, he says, to defend himself, and his hand was badly cut. Stockman of St. Louis recovered the coats.

Stockman of New York went to Justice Spaulding's court and got an attachment. Constable Kinney and a deputy William Egan found two coats at the tailor shop and took them; then they went to the home on Kensington avenue.

Stockman of New York was also on hand, and while the officers searched for the other four coats and failed to find them, Mrs. Stockman and Mr. Stockman, they say, argued the matter with Stockman of New York.

When the four other coats could not be found, the officers arrested the New York departed. In possession of the two coats that had been found.

The officers carried the coats. The coats were big and heavy, and the fur lining is thick and heavy. The trouperature was only a little under 80 degrees, which made the job of carrying such coats different from what it would have been in January.

TRADING IS ACTIVE, PRICES ARE STEADY

Range of Values Throughout the Session Is a Narrow One, but No Signs of Weakness Are Apparent at Any Time.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—Prices opened unchanged to a fraction higher on Wall street this morning with the Bee stocks and Pennsylvania the center of the speculative demand. The market was more active than in some days past, but the trading element was about equally divided on the buying and selling side.

Speculation in the financial district remains moderately bullish, owing to the active trading in the Bee stocks and Pennsylvania. Foreign markets are firm on this account. American bonds are steady in the London market and consols unchanged.

Confident buying of mining, Erie and Union Pacific, although attended by very small advances, caused a general lifting, and speculation became active. Realizing depressed the commodities at a check and stopped the rise. SUSPECT RYAN OF RUNNING RINGERSt. Louis Plunger Makes $40,- 000 Killing and Investigation Will Follow.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 8.—Rumors are flying thick and fast that Athlon, the winner of the fifth race Monday afternoon, is a "ringer." There are no tangible stories in connection with this assertion, but it is heard frequently wherever turfmen congregate.

The stewards are not only investigating his reversal in form and his ownership, which is now believed to be "Baldy" Ryan of St. Louis, but they are trying to find out if he is a "ringer" or the horse that has raced through the West all year as Athlon.

U. S. Wadsworth, in whose name and colors the horse was run, says the horse is straight and that he owns it, but frankly admits that Ryan once owned it.

"Baldy" Ryan is the "get-rich-quick" summer of St. Louis. After remaining in retirement in turf affairs for many months, he cropped to the surface at the racetrack here and won $40,000 on Athlon.

For two days Ryan has been flitting about the village. He has made several trips out to the track and very frequently sent away many telegraph messages. The vice men of the turf, noting Ryan's presence, said that he was preparing to bet a watermelon, and every man who believes the public form here is at a discount, was waiting for a tip to get aboard. Word came in the fifth race that Athlon was a good thing. In his previous efforts this horse had shown little of speed and was badly beaten, but everybody said, "Oh, that race didn't count; just bet your money this afternoon and cash."

Th advice proved to be all right and brought about big financial returns. In the early betting as high as 5 to 1 was offered against Athlon, but very little money was placed at these figures. There was plenty of 7 to 2 to be had, however, and it was at this figure that most of the money went on him.

Ryan's money was placed at an average price of 3 to 1. He was not stingy with his information and once his money was in the ring, he imparted to a number of friends that he considered Athlon a sure winner. John W. Gates and J. A. Drake were recipients of his good advice, and these plungers walked down the lawn toward the ring before the race and saw their money placed. Ryan, Gates, Drake and Pat McCarren fairly scorched the ring on the result. So much money was unloaded to the bookmakers that the horse eventually closed a favorite. The mighty, which was the early choice, receded in the betting until he was second in fact, or Athlon won easily.

The $1700 lost by the bidding up was more a drop in the financial bucket which Ryan, Gates, Drake and McCarren had dipped in so extensively and profitably by the race.

After the race the stewards, dissatisfied with the reversal in form displayed by Athlon, ordered an investigation. They will also look into the reversal of the horse. If it is found that Ryan is the owner, or even a part owner, and the ownership has not been registered, Athlon will be disqualified out of first money and the race awarded to King Rose.

SPORT FLASHLIGHTS

A Brooklyn preacher says there is more harm in frequenting saloons than there is in Sunday baseball. It is not at all improbable that the brand of baseball served up in Brooklyn is responsible for the evil he mentions.

Why has not someone suggested that Von der Ahe as a possibility for the Cardinal manager? Almost every other baseball notable has been mentioned.

When called upon recently in a New York police court to state his financial standing, ex-Pugilist Tom Sha-key modestly admitted that he was "$20,000 strong." Now look for a large sale of those little "How-to-Become-a-Pugilist" pamphlets.

According to reports the Browns and the Cardinals will try out a number of players within the next few weeks. Let us hope they will turn out to be "rudy performers."

What a difference we would notice in the standing of the National League clubs if there were two more clubs as strong as Pittsburgh to contest the championship with New York.

There appears to be no foundation for the rumor that the Cardinals have been ordered to begin night practice by electric light.

Lost—Tommy Barry, formerly of with the Philadelphia National League Club. When last heard of he was occupying the bench for the St. Louis Cardinals. During the Boston series, Manager-Captain Burke threatened to send him in to relieve Thielman. Tommy went through the side gate for refreshments and has not been heard of since.

Robison in Pittsburgh
AFTER ROBERTAILE.
PITTSBURGH, Pa., Aug. 8.—Frank de Haas Robison of the St. Louis Cardinals was a visitor here Monday. The object of his mission was to secure "Frenchy" Robertaile, the midget pitcher of the Pirates, who has been a hold at terms that best suit him.

Cincinnati and Brooklyn are both 11-fer Robertaile. Monday night Robison was closeted with the pitcher for some hours in the room of his hotel, out the result of their conference was not made known.

LEAGUE PARK, Aug. 8.—Ned Hanlon's Trolley Dodgers in a "double-header" with the Cardinals in the attraction at League Park today.

The Brooklyn players, having been playing unusually erratic ball the past few weeks, and it is impossible to forecast how their games with the Cardinals will result. In one game they are giving exhibitions that would be a source of pride to champions, and in the next they trail like the tailenders they are.

Treasurer Medious, a prominent Brooklyn business man, whose investment in the club is purely a speculation, is with the club.

In conversation before the game he referred to the blacklist law which was adopted last week by the National Commission upon the advice of Vice-President Stanley Robinson of the local club.

"We have three men who will come under the blacklist law unless they report to us within the next 10 days," said Mr. Medious.

"Pitcher Reising, Wiggs and Owens all jumped the team after they had signed contracts, and they returned to the team and work out their contracts they will be forever barred from playing with organized leagues. In-feder Weiland, who also belongs to Brooklyn, will not come under this head, but he never having signed a contract with the Brooklyn club."

The probable pitchers for the first game are Stricklett and Brown.

BROWNS MOVE ON TO WASHINGTON

National Capital Again Baseball Mad Over Recent Great Showing of Team.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—The St. Louis Browns arrived here this morning from New York, where they aided the Highlanders in their fight for the pennant by dropping every game of the series. The team is somewhat crippled owing to injuries to Gleason and Sugden, who will probably occupy the bench for a few days. Manager McAleer in conversation said this morning that he hoped he would not have the same experience with the Washington water that he had on the last invasion of the East. The Browns manager claimed that none of his players recovered from its effects until after the team had gone back to St. Louis almost a week later.

The recent showing of the Nationals against the strongest clubs of the American league has again set Washington baseball mad. Three out of five from Cleveland, four from Detroit, three out of four from Chicago is a record of which Champions might be proud. Optimists are beginning to prophesy that the Nationals will yet occupy a position in the first division.

It is probable that the pitchers in today's game will be Patten and Glade, with the receivers, Rutledge and Spencer.
